WEEKLY NEWSLETTER OF ONEIDA CAMPGROUND & LODGE

VOLUME 12, NO. 18

Editor: Ron MacIntyre

August 11, 2017

Ahoy Mateys

Welcome pirates one and all to the annual gathering of the Brotherhood. This year Captain Sodomite and I bring a boon that cost us dearly but after an ardent battle our goal was achieved. We have captured the Danish ship The Berlin and, as predicted, amongst the crew we discovered the son of Admiral Whetstones and have ransomed him. We now await Whetstones' response.

Come join us as we see what the Admiral's decision is at Club "O" on Saturday night at 8:00 pm for a dessert banquet of sweets and drinks and either much merriment or the execution of Whetstones' heir. If you are so inclined bring your favorite dessert to share or show off your sweet culinary skills and create a delectable delight. If you lack talent in the sweets department feel free to bring a bottle of spirits for the barrel. Bring your dish or drink to share between 7:00 pm and leave it with one on the scullery crew at the disco. The celebration will continue at 10:00 pm when the club opens to begin the Captain's Ball!

As usual there will be prizes for the best costumes in 4 categories:

Best fancy dress, Best Scaly Wag, Best Wench and Best "Thrown Together". There will be a special prize for the best overall pirate. This is one you shouldn't miss, see you there one and all!

Regards,

Captain Fellatio Blueballs

Honest Confession

Since I know THE RAG is dedicated to truth in journalism, it's necessary for me to set the record straight: Since Rob and I hosted the afternoon Tea Dance at our home on White Party Weekend, we have received no end of compliments and praise for a wonderful party. But the startling truth is, we deserve none of this acclaim at all. In reality, it was the duo of Tim and Chris, who master-minded the affair, did the decorating, advised us on everything, lugged furniture, and made punch. DJ Rob kept the party going with his tunes and made it special. Lloyd, the hunky bartender, charmed everyone, and it was the contributions of many others that took care of every single thing.

If you dig deeper to separate fact from alternate facts, you'll soon discover that the real success of the Tea Dance was the very special people who attended – that is our community of Oneida. Ron and Tony have sustained a place where there is a genuine sense of family and fun, and we enjoy socializing and sharing together. Another shocking truth: it really is better to give than to receive, for if Rob and I did give the party, we actually received so very much more, not only in food & liquor brought along, but gifts and good wishes, too. However, as this is a confession, I'll go on to admit that I have no short term memory (Rob my husband can more than amply testify to that), so it is very likely that I won't recall names. Therefore, when you next see me, please say, "Hi Jim, I'm Felix, you have met me and my partner Oscar at your tea dance," and please don't hold my memory lapses against me! I throw myself on the mercy of the court of public opinion!

So once again, before I do forget, we can clear the air of one bit of fake news: Okay, yes, we did blow up some beach balls, purchase some groceries, and concoct the raspberry punch. But it is not true that we rented two puppies to provide entertainment – Mitzy and NateNate really are our babies, and they hope to get to know all of you better over time as we do.

With thanks and love,

*Jim * Rob*

Ask Edna

*Dearest Edna,
I have recently come to terms with the fact that I have a foot fetish and now I don't care who knows it! I haven't told my new boyfriend about it yet. How should I break the news to him?*

*Sincerely
Tom McAnn*

Dear Tom,
The next morning at breakfast when you make coffee, let him see you strain it through one of his dirty socks. If he doesn't get the message, ask him if you can eat a doughnut off of his big toe. If he still doesn't get it, break up with him immediately because he is an idiot!

Love,
Edna

Ask Edna will hopefully be a continuing column in the rag--but we need your help! Please submit questions for Edna to information@oneidaresort.com. Edna will attempt to answer as many questions as possible.
